He has four different ways of disposing sammerily of all old England's fues. In the first case, as we described the other day, he has a shell which, on exploding, will generate an immense dark suffocating vapour, that, sonsharug the oxygen in order to support combustion, leaves an atmosphere of nitrogen which, being driven by the wind against the walls of the fortress, rushes juto the cusomates and renders it totally untenable at the some time that, under cover of this fatal fog, our fleet would be enabled to approach and destroy all towns, fortifications, and shipping on the seaboard, unmolested any hostile are. This, however, is far from exhausting his destructive ingenuity. In the second place he propounds that shells filed with influmenable liquid, having therein a small ball of metal potassium, upon therein a small ball of metal potassium, upon Agents in Hongkong for the above Combains fired into the water, are capable of pany call SPECIAL ATTENTION OF HATS, DRESS HATS, OPERA HATS, in a naval engagement—our ships being to pines, and the Straits. THE NEW HUNGARIAN PREMIER. Koloman Tisza has attained the zenith of bis political career. . . . He has reached the goal of his wishes, the object of his dreams; he is really and truly at the head of the Government, and, next to the Emperor, he is the most powerful man in Hungary. We who have closely watched the course of events can see one by one the rounds of the ladder which he who has reached the top cannot see. All the important points of Tigza's past history are at this word of the old party leader sounds in our cars, and many of his shuffling tricks against the [33] /.) on Local Risks only. existing order of things live in our memory. To-day he is the chief guardian of this order of things, and one naturally asks by what miracle this change was accomplished. In Hungary it is asserted that the whole thing took pince naturally. Tisza, and with him the Opposition, were obliged to acknowledge the compromise. and then it was only just and right that he and. "his party should get the Government into their.

Tisza's political talents were generally recognised even when he was in the Opposition; his ambition and longing for power are notgreater than his wisdom. We have often observed the wisdom of his party manouvres. THE LONDON ASSURANCE But it is one thing to be at the head of a party. and quite another thing to be at the head of a Government. What are qualifications for the one position may be defects in the other. Herr, von Tieza has been a minister for more than half a year, and yet he appears hever to have found an opportunity to perform any important statesman-like action. He and the Cabinet to which he belonged bevo hitherto been peculiarly · favoured by oircumstauces. In former times a minister in Hungary was morally stoned, if he spake of raising the tuxes or selling State lands; but flow the minister who comes forward with such proposals is received with joy. The honeymoon of the new minister will soon be over, and the sober seriousness of political necessity will nesert its rights. First will come the negotiations with Austria. They will be the touchstone of Tisza's capacity as a statesman, and will also test the strength and power of resistance of the compromise. We know in reasonable terms. that the press plways goes, a stop further than the Government, and therefore we will not pay much head to the atterances of the Transleithan journals. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. ANGLO CHINESE DICTIONARY, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong, NOR comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon thom, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are count of Twenty per cent. (20%) upon the the best principle hitherto attained. The typomake the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have erctotore on aracterized Uninese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration. Jhalmers' Vocabularly contains about 16,000 this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chineso charge. ters; Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published; the student of this difficult language absolutely re. upon insurances effected with this Company. quires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many us any other Dictionary hitherto pub. For practical purposes the arrangement of stands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinesc. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally. . It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.

THAT NEW WORLD. BY MES. S. M. B. PLATT. How gracious we are to grant to the dead Those wide, vague lands in the foreign sky, Beserving the world for ourselves instead; . For we must live, though others must dis!

And what is the world that we keep, I pray ! True, it has glimpses of down and flowers; Then youth and love are here and away, Like mated birds-but nothing is ours.

Ah, nothing indeed, but we cling to it all, It is nothing to hear one's own heart best. It is nothing to see one's born tears fall: Yot surely the breath of our life is sweet. Yes, the breath of our life is so sweet, I fear We were loath to give it for all we know.

Of that charmed country we hold so dear, Far into whose beauty the breathless ge. Yet certain we are, when we see them fade Out of the pleasant light of the sun, Of the saw a of gold in the pulm leaf's shade,

You done not doubt it, O soul of mine!

And the strange, high jewels all these have won.

One, only one, from that voyage divine. With something, anything, sure for mol Ah, blow me the scent of one lily; to tell That it grew outside of the world, at most; Ah, show me a pluma to touch, or a shell
